

James Mesich

Diocese of Algoma and Ecclesiastical Province of Ontario

James is from Sault Ste. Marie Ontario and is currently living in Guelph Ontario in his first year of a Bachelor of Science, majoring in zoology. He is a representative of the Ecclesiastical Province of Ontario. New to the PWRDF family, James' interest in the organization began while serving as a youth delegate for the Diocese of Algoma at the 2016 General Synod where he heard about the Council and what they did. James has always been interested in cultures and people from around the world and saw an opportunity to expand his understanding of the world while making a positive impact in it. He can't wait to get started in his work with PWRDF and hopes to make that positive change happen.
