

Voices OF HOPE

Rwanda

Vestine lives in Burera district in northern Rwanda, in the remote community of Nyamicucu. The closest hospital is a nine-hour walk away.

Vestine told her neighbour, who is a Community Health Worker, that she was not feeling well. Her neighbour convinced Vestine to have a check-up and Vestine learned she was pregnant. This early intervention allowed her to confirm her HIV status and to take precautions to prevent mother-child transmission.

In her seventh month, Vestine went into premature labour. Her neighbour called the district ambulance, provided by PWRDF partner Partners in Health through the All Mothers and Children Count program. The ambulance took her to the health centre where maternity services were available. When further complications arose, the ambulance took Vestine to the state-of-the-art Butaro hospital for an emergency C-section.

Baby and Vestine are both healthy thanks to the interventions along the way. High quality maternal and child health services means getting all the steps right. Continuum of care and the integration of services allow Vestine and thousands of other Rwandan mothers to have safe and healthy births each year.

PWRDF

The Primate's World Relief
and Development Fund

The Anglican Church of Canada

@pwrdf_justgeneration

Learn more at www.pwrdf.org

@pwrdfcan

@pwrdf

Voices OF HOPE

Rwanda

Vestine lives in Burera district in northern Rwanda, in the remote community of Nyamicucu. The closest hospital is a nine-hour walk away.

Vestine told her neighbour, who is a Community Health Worker, that she was not feeling well. Her neighbour convinced Vestine to have a check-up and Vestine learned she was pregnant. This early intervention allowed her to confirm her HIV status and to take precautions to prevent mother-child transmission.

In her seventh month, Vestine went into premature labour. Her neighbour called the district ambulance, provided by PWRDF partner Partners in Health through the All Mothers and Children Count program. The ambulance took her to the health centre where maternity services were available. When further complications arose, the ambulance took Vestine to the state-of-the-art Butaro hospital for an emergency C-section.

Baby and Vestine are both healthy thanks to the interventions along the way. High quality maternal and child health services means getting all the steps right. Continuum of care and the integration of services allow Vestine and thousands of other Rwandan mothers to have safe and healthy births each year.

PWRDF

The Primate's World Relief
and Development Fund

The Anglican Church of Canada

@pwrdf_justgeneration

Learn more at www.pwrdf.org

@pwrdfcan

@pwrdf